IMPEACHMENT.

As was generally anticipated the Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives decided that there is not sufficient cause to proceed against President Johnson with articles of impeachment. This decision, however, has been reached by a bare majority of one, four out of the seven Republicans voting for it, and three against it. These latter with the two Democrats on the committee constitute the majority which is responsible for the result. It is now said that an appeal will be taken to the House and an attempt to make to override the decision thus reached, but if this should be undertaken there can be no reasonable doubt that the majority of the Committee will be sustained. It may as well be considered settled that no articles of impeachment will be presented by the present Congress, the great majority of the Republican party are not in favor of such extreme measures. They will not sanction nor support them. President Johnson, by the action of Congress, has been reduced to a mere cipher in the Government, and it is better to let him remain where he is, than to give him the notoriety that such proceedings would authorize, or risk the chance of making him a martyr by a prosecution that probably would not be sustained were it undertaken.

But while the Judiciary Committee have not found occasion to recommend articles of impeachment they do discover sufficient grounds of censure to pronounce President Johnson unworthy of the confidence and respect of the American people. This is, most certainly, a grave charge made by so high an authority and after such long-continued and patient investigation of the President's conduct. It must have its influence at home and abroad, and Mr. Johnson can never recover from its damaging effects. He has thoroughly disgraced himself both by his public and private acts, and has not the confidence nor respect of either Democrats or Republicans. Now that the impeachment investigation is practically ended we think all parties can afford to allow President Johnson to be let alone. He cannot do much harm, and at the end of his term of office will retire to the shades of private life, and like Millard Fillmore and Franklin Pierce become practically overlooked and forgotten. This silent contempt with which the American people treat their false and unprincipled rulers is better than impeachment.

Gen. Cole is said to express no regret for having murdered Mr. Hiccock, but he is sorry that he has brought his wife into such unpleasant notoriety. This is, doubtless, very considerate of him, but it is a pity he did not think of it sooner. He seems to have been considering the general subject of his wife's relations with his victim for some time and to have employed some of his friends as detectives and informers, as well as subjected his wife to a rigorous and systematic catechizing on the subject. His homicide, so far as his own statements warrant an inference, was perfectly cold-blooded and premeditated, perpetrated without a word of warning or the slightest attempt to ascertain from Hiccock whether the allegations against him were true, or whether he was the victim of others. If the concern he professes to feel for the reputation of his wife had been a genuine regard for her honor and her welfare, he would not have taken the most effectual means he could possibly imagine to fix upon her, in the eyes of all the world, the ineffable brand of disgrace and infamy. There is no plea of insane passion, or of the sudden discovery of perjury and wrong, or even of established and obstinate guilt, to gloss over his act. It was a deliberate, intentional murder, if such a crime survives the sentimental tendency of the times; and the most terrible part of the crime and disgrace which it involves, apart from the murderer himself, falls upon the woman on whose behalf it professes to have been committed. N. Y. Times.

We often hear of the humors of the bench and the bar, but the justice of the jury-box, if only collated, would be quite as amusing. The other day, in the Supreme Court here, a civil case was on trial. The suit was important, the lawyers labored, and a full day was occupied. The jury were faithful and attentive, and one Prussian jurymen, of Bismarckian face, was observed to be especially sagacious and interested. At length, the case being argued, the jury retired, but soon sent back the message that one of their number could not speak a word of English, much less understand one. It was the intelligent jurymen who had sat with the rapid expression of fidelity and interest all through the day, who had been the special object to which the counsel on both sides addressed their pleas, and who only revealed his misfortune when, being asked for the opinion in the jury-room, he confessed he didn't "verstehen." N. Y. Times.

Advices from the Plains represent that Gen. Sherman has determined to concentrate his forces on the stage, railroad and telegraph lines to Denver, Utah and Montana. The General will notify ranchmen who are exposed to Indian depredations, that he can only afford them protection on certain designated lines. He designs furnishing arms to all persons crossing the Plains by stage, and to send soldiers with them when convenient. He is in favor of the rapid construction of the Pacific Railroad, and thinks Government would save money by hastening its early completion. It is reported that on account of depredations committed near Cottonwood, the citizens have been notified to remain at home for the protection of their property. Six men have been recently killed near that town.

While the Convention was preparing yesterday afternoon to draw rents, Morpheus seized Florence Greeley by the head and sent him to dreamland, where he remained for twenty minutes, the observed of all observers, until one of the page boys tickled him with a straw and startled poor Florence as if a ghost from Andersonville had walked down his throat, for his mouth was open wide enough to take down a good sized goblet. The Tribune Company should have secured a photograph of Florence on this occasion. It would be so captivating. Nothing but Bismarck's picture of the Sleeping Beauty could approach it. Let us have a Greeley capping and scoring. What an incident it would be to subscribe for the Tribune!—[Albany Knickerbocker.]

The Treasury Department is prepared to redeem the compound interest notes as they shall severally mature, by payment of the principal and interest thereon to the date of maturity, on their presentation to the Treasurer, or either of the Assistant Treasurers at New York, Philadelphia or Boston.

Another Bequest to Harvard College. The Newton Journal states that the late E. H. Eldridge of that town, (son-in-law of J. W. Tully) by his will, in case of the death of his only son, bequeathed to Harvard College, a house on Hancock avenue, in Boston, the income of which is to be appropriated to the support of two or three deserving young men while obtaining an education at said College, the trust to be known as the Tully Fund.

THE BRISTOL STEAMERS.—It is now understood that the new Steamer Bristol will leave New York on Wednesday morning next and may be expected at Bristol during the evening of that day. On Thursday the boat will take a party of friends off on an excursion outside in order to test her. After the excursion the boat will remain at her wharf until Monday; on Monday evening, June 17th, the Bristol, Capt. Benjamin Brayton, will return to New York, and the Providence, Capt. Benjamin M. Simmons, will leave New York for Bristol thus commencing their regular trips and opening the new route between New York and Boston via Bristol. The PHOENIX says:

We understand that the Town Council at their regular meeting on Monday last, appointed a Committee to make arrangements for a public reception of the Bristol on her first entrance into our harbor. A grand salute will be fired from two or three points in the harbor followed by a general display of flags from the shipping and the various flag staves in town and other public demonstration of rejoicing.

It is now positively known that the Czar of Russia and not the Emperor of France was the object of the attempted assassination at Paris, and that the shots were fired by a Polish mechanic. The madness and folly of this attempt may be most strikingly illustrated by considering what might have ensued had the assassin succeeded in his purpose. Poland would only have exchanged one master for another; and a sense of self-preservation might have impelled the new Czar, among his first acts, to recall the act of amnesty for Russian-Poland, which has just been proclaimed by Alexander, and to place that territory under the most rigid military government. The Polish subjects of the Czar may consider it a stroke of great good fortune that the weapon selected for his murderous purpose by their ill-advised fellow-countryman, proved so defective as to impair his aim and thus balk his design. He had, it seems, the nerve to fire a second shot at the Czar, on perceiving that the first was ineffectual through the bursting of the pistol barrel; but the same incident again intervened to save the life of his intended victim.

MASSACHUSETTS.—The Masonic celebration in Boston on the occasion of the dedication of the Masonic Temple, on the 24th of June will be an immense affair. About thirty encampments of Knights Templar and any quantity of Blue Lodges, who will number as many as ten thousand persons in the aggregate will be present. A procession will be formed in the forenoon on the Common. President Johnson will be present. All the bands of music in New England are said to be engaged, as well as the Band of the New York and the Marine Band of Washington. All the accommodations of the hotels have been engaged, and many Masons will be obliged to quarter in halls. It is contemplated among the merchants to make the 24th last a holiday and close up their stores.

The President and his friends returned to Washington on Saturday. Gen. Griffin has been compelled to remove the police of Galveston, Texas, owing to their hostility to the negroes. The Democratic State Executive Committee of Ohio has issued a circular, calling upon every member of the party in that State to contribute ten cents toward election expenses.

Items. Seventy-two societies will participate in the great German St. Patrick's festival at Philadelphia in July. Edward A. Pollard, of Richmond, has commenced a suit for his property in Washington sold by confiscation. The charges of the hackmen at Niagara Falls are said to equal in severity any charges made during the war. A man in Ohio has commenced a $20,000 suit against a woman for attempting to alienate his wife's affections from him. Accidental insurance companies in England paid the policy held by the heirs of a murdered man, arguing that murder is an accident. A man in Louisville, whose wife died of cholera, has sued the city for $25,000, alleging that the impurity of that city caused the disease. A colored tournament is among the excitements of Memphis, which looks very silly to the white race. But we see no reason why there should not be black as well as white tilloes. A farmer near Erie, Pa., bought several barrels of poplar sawdust for the purpose of using it as manure, and put a link into each full of corn. His corn came up next day by the help of every dog in a circle of five miles or so.

Thaddeus Stevens, now project of confiscating property enough in the South to pay for damages done by rebels in the North, reminds the New York Nation of the old proverb about the difficulty of "making the break of a Highlander." Mr. George Peabody has sent in a conductor of the Boston and Maine Railroad, a handsome testimonial, in the shape of a massive gold link girdle, suitably inscribed, as an acknowledgment of the accompanying letters expressing it of their public attentions to him while in this country.

In a recent trial in the County Court at Dorset, England, the judge having asked a witness, "What is an 'Anthony'?" he replied "the latest pig, your honor. The little pig is always 'Anthony'." On an inquiry why the little pig was so called, the attorney replied: "I believe, your honor, it is associated with the saint of that name, from the fact that in his captivity time the smallest and least valuable pig was usually picked for the church."

Miscellaneous. The Long Yacht Club of New York held its second annual regatta on Thursday, six sloops and a catboat started, representing three classes, and a piece of bandstand silverware was the prize for the winning yacht of each class, the general prize being the champion club colors. Two of the sloops capsize in the race, but the crews were rescued in each case. The sloop Ducla Ben came to anchor of the general and second class prizes. The sloop Nantux and catboat Jennie were the winners of the first and third class prizes respectively.

Gov. Henry of Pennsylvania has joined the Good Templars in Harrisburg.

R. Bishop Buckley, of "Buckley's Minstrels," died at Quincy, Mass., on Thursday, at the age of 41 years.

William Reed, a New York coal dealer, and not Morley the faro dealer has bought Harrow's villa.

Chief Justice Chase, it is said, will certainly be present and deliver the oration at the next fair of the New England Agricultural Society. Other eminent men will also be present.

Mr. Terry, living near Paris, Kentucky, owns an eccentric female dog, which has repudiated her own offspring and adopted a litter of young coons.

George Miller, a boy 17 years of age, who has been a captive among the Indians since 1866, having effected his escape, is reported to have arrived at Denver City. He was captured by some roving Blackfeet, but afterward was stolen from them by the Cheyennes. He reports that the Cheyennes held five white women in captivity.

Chief Justice Chase is said to have remarked that he could see no reason, why the James at Richmond should not be dotted with flourishing manufactories, and its water power is unexcelled by any in the country. He intimated that he would, on his return from Raleigh, call the attention of Northern manufacturers to its pre-eminent advantages. Senator Sprague, his son-in-law, is one of the most extensive and successful manufacturers in the United States.

The last that was seen of ex-Vice President Breckinridge, of the defeated Confederacy, he was taking sherry gobblers at one of the tables of the American restaurant in the Paris Exhibition, with a couple of agents of Northern Sewing Machine Companies.

Charles F. Brown (Antenna Ward) was buried at his native place, Waterville, Maine, on Thursday last. His remains were brought from England enclosed in four coffins and these in a pine box. The whole weighed nine hundred pounds. Brown was thirty three years of age. His mother is a widow and has no other child.

Corporal punishment in the public schools of New Jersey has been abolished by act of the Legislature.

The prettiest neck-tie for a lady—the arms of her baby.

Senator Wade's party parlock of a grand banquet at Omaha, Nebraska, Friday evening, in the State House, given by the Legislature, City Council and citizens. About 300 persons were present.

PIANO FOR LET. ONE LARGE, full round, Seven Octave Piano-forte now to let for the season at the City Music Store 25 Thames street. T. W. WOOD.

PERUVIAN SYRUP. A PROTECTED SOLUTION OF THE PROTON. IDE OF IRON, supplies the blood with its LIFE ELEMENT, IRON, giving strength, vigor and new life to the whole system. If the thousands who are suffering from Debility, Female Weakness, &c., would but test the virtues of the PERUVIAN SYRUP, the effect would not only astonish themselves but would please all their friends; for instead of feeling cross, "all gone" and miserable, they would be cheerful, vigorous and active. A DISTINGUISHED JURIST WRITES TO A FRIEND AS FOLLOWS: "I have tried the PERUVIAN SYRUP, and the result fully sustains your prediction. It has made a new man of me, infused into my system new vigor and energy; I am no longer tremulous and debilitated, as when you first saw me, but stronger, healthier, and with larger capacity for labor, mental and physical, than at any time during the last five years. Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and I have no cause to regret my haste to give it a trial. The genuine has 'PERUVIAN SYRUP' blown in the glass. A 32 page Pamphlet will be sent free. J. F. DINSMORE, Proprietor, No. 26 Dey St., New York; Sold by all Druggists.

GRACE'S CELEBRATED SALVE. AMESBURY, MASS., Oct. 13, 1863. Mr. Grace—Dear Sir—Having been afflicted grossly for several weeks with a severe sore throat, I have used several remedies for its eradication without receiving any relief, until I applied your salve, which effected a speedy and permanent cure. I therefore feel happy to testify my confidence in its virtues. Yours with respect, JAMES BEAN.

I certify to the truthfulness of the above statement. BETH W. FOWLE & SON, Druggists, Proprietors, No. 10 1-2 Broadway, at 25 cents a box. je 10 1w
